India - Pakistani War Tensions Still Mounting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense sources say Pakistan has sent freighters to Communist China and Romania to pick up arms and ammunition as tension rises between Pakistan and neighboring India.

Meanwhile, U.S. intelligence analysts suggest the possibility of increasing effectiveness of an estimated 23,000 guerrillas in East Pakistan might prompt the Pakistanis to attack guerrilla training camps reported to be in India.

Intelligence specialists doubt that India will deliberately start a war with Pakistan. But they say that growing military forces facing each other across the Indian-Pakistani border intensify the possibility of a clash from miscalculations. The next three months are considered critical.

House Backs Major School Aid Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has gone on record in favor of a major new program of general aid to the nation's colleges that could cost $1 billion a year.

Despite strong administration opposition, doubts as to its constitutionality and warnings that it could lead to federal control of higher education, an attempt to kill the program was overwhelmingly defeated, 310 to 84, Wednesday.

The new aid program is the costliest item in a massive five-year, $21.7-billion higher education bill on which the House is expected to complete action today.

Before the final vote is taken, however, the House will have to deal again with President Nixon's $1.5-billion school desegregation bill, which was defeated Monday on a preliminary test.

The bill, rewritten to include an antibusing provision, will be reoffered today or Friday as an amendment to the higher education bill.

The new general aid program for colleges and universities to help them meet rising costs of education. Although the government now provides large sums to colleges in research grants and special aid, no operating funds are being provided.

Rep. Edith Green D-Ore., chief sponsor of the bill, said there is a financial crisis in the higher education community that could cause hundreds of institutions to close within the next few years unless they receive federal help.

Truck Depot Close To DMZ Hit By Copters

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. helicopter gunships wiped out a North Vietnamese truck depot in the northern quarter of South Vietnam, destroying all 10 vehicles and killing 11 enemy soldiers, the U.S. Command announced today.

The attack on the truck depot was the biggest action reported as Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird conferred with Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and Gen. Creighton W. Abrams on further American troop cutbacks, economic aid to South Vietnam and the pacification program.

A spokesman for the U.S. Command, Maj. Richard Gardner, said American pilots spotted the truck depot between the Laotian border and the A Shau valley, a key transportation point for supplies coming off the Ho Chi Minh trail.

Gardner said the 2½-ton trucks were spotted off the road, but the action reports did not indicate whether they were loaded. There were no reports of secondary explosions, which would indicate hits on ammunition or fuel, he added.

The attack was made by gunships of the 101st Airborne Division, the only American division still in South Vietnam. There were no U.S. casualties, Gardner reported.

As Laird in his conferences mapped plans for an end to the U.S. ground combat role in Vietnam, the South Vietnamese command prepared for new dry season offensives to strengthen its hand before the major portion of the American troops are withdrawn by next July.

Lt. Gen. Ngo Quang Truong, the commander in the Mekong Delta, told Associated Press correspondent J. T. Wolkerstorfer he is planning a new drive to destroy the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong bases remaining in the U Minh forest and at the southern tip of the Ca Mau peninsula.

Truong gave no timetable, but the dry season usually begins in the delta in December.

Ancient Penny

Decides Election

ELIZABETHTOWN, Ky. (AP) — Mike Carroll pulled an Indian-head penny out of a cup Wednesday and won a seat on the city council.

He and Sam Dibble each collected 1,288 votes in Tuesday's election and decided to settle the issue by a drawing. The first man to pull the Indian-head from the cup containing other pennies would be the winner.

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., the committee chairman, said Richmond, Va., attorney Lewis F. Powell Jr. would take the witness chair later today after questioning of Rehnquist is completed.

State Solons OK Department Split

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Gilligan administration scored a modest legislative triumph Wednesday with House passage of an executive reorganization bill, but faced a difficult decision on election law reform legislation finally cleared by the general assembly.

The House approved 79-7 and sent to the Senate an administration-backed measure to divide the present Ohio Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction into two separate cabinet-level agencies—a Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, and a Department of Corrections.

The split in functions of the present department has been a legislative objective of the executive branch of government since the administration of former Gov. Michael DiSalle. Gov. John Gilligan's Citizens

Task Force on Mental Health and Retardation earlier this year urged adoption of the legislation so the separate departments would have "the best chance to achieve the human goals set for them."

Dr. Kenneth Gaver, director designate of the existing Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction, has called the combined operation "just too big and too diverse to permit effective administration."

The department is the state's largest both in terms of people served and employees.

Other provisions of the measure:

—Creation of a new Division of General Administration to undertake all purchasing and related functions for both new agencies.

—An increase in the membership of the Ohio Parole Board from the present seven to eleven.

—A new salary for the mental health and retardation director of $37,000 a year. The corrections chief would still be paid at the normal cabinet-level scale of $27,539.

Senate passage of the measure is expected.

After considerable maneuvering, the legislature also approved slight changes made by a joint conference committee in (Continued on Page 2)

Consider Plan To Market Meat Of Tainted Turkeys

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is considering a plan which would enable Swift & Co. to market 50,000 turkeys tainted with DDT-like chemicals if the meat can be made to measure up to federal standards.

The plan, which could save Swift $300,000 by government estimates, consists of cooking the chemicals out of the turkeys, then clearing them for use in frozen dinners, soups and pot pies. Officials emphasized in interviews that the meat would have to be proven safe.

If adopted, the plan would be the closing chapter in what remains the most mysterious incident yet involving contamination of food by a family of industrial chemicals called polychlorinated biphenyls, or PCBs. The chemicals have been blamed for skin ailments in humans and liver disease and birth defects in test animals.

The contaminated turkeys were discovered at the Swift & Co. plant in Detroit Lakes, Minn., last August. Officials still have not disclosed the source of the contamination.

Agriculture Department experts say something evidently contaminated fat used as a finishing ration and fed to the turkeys in their last six weeks before slaughter.

"We now have reason to believe there was one hot shot of fat into one ration," said Dr. Fred J. Fullerton, director of field operations for the department's Consumer and Marketing Service.

But neither Fullerton nor his special assistant, Dr. Joseph Stein, would speculate on what contaminated the fat. "I think I know," said Stein. "If it ever comes to where we have some proof, we'll give you a call," said Fullerton.

Can it happen again? "If it's true what I think that source has been eliminated," said Stein.

A three-state survey in September led the department to declare the incident an isolated one. Officials said at the time they would test the turkeys lot by lot to see if any were safe enough to be released for Thanksgiving tables.

The tests found every lot contained excessive levels. The federal guideline for PCBs sets a maximum permissible level of 5 parts per million. Stein said many of the turkeys contained 100 parts per million and some had over 300.

Seek To Keep Foreign Aid Going During Overhaul

WASHINGTON (AP) — House leaders have launched an effort to keep the Nixon administration's foreign-aid program in operation while Senate foes map plans to slash and revamp it.

A two-hour appearance by Secretary of State William P. Rogers before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Wednesday failed to end the impasse that has developed since Senate rejection last Friday of the bill extending the aid program.

Rep. George H. Mahon, D-Tex., seeks rules Committee clearance today for House consideration next Tuesday of a continuing resolution to fund the aid program, plus items included in the unpassed defense and District of Columbia appropriations bills. The funds would last until Congress adjourns.

Members of the Foreign Relations Committee, meanwhile, hoped to decide at their fourth meeting of the week whether to seek Senate approval of a new, sharply cut aid bill.

Chairman J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said after the session with Rogers the committee may have to come up with a new aid measure "to ward off a continuing resolution."

"Either we do something as an alternative or be faced with the necessity of accepting it," Fulbright said.

Current spending authority for the District of Columbia defense and foreign aid expires Nov. 15, and the administration contends failure to act by then would mean the Agency for International Development would have to shut down, and its 6,500 U.S. employees would lose their jobs. Several senators, however, say aid could use the $4.7 billion already appropriated but as yet unspent.

SHERIFF'S Deputy Don Thompson's footrace with two juvenile escapees along the Scioto River railroad tracks failed Wednesday night, but the boys were finally apprehended after one returned to Thompson's patrol car and the other tried to hitch a ride with another deputy.

Thompson, on routine patrol, spied the Tuesday escapees from the Zanesville Youth Camp hitchhiking on Route 23 South at 5:09 Wednesday, and stopped to question them. They sprinted for the railroad tracks, as Thompson ordered them to stop and even fired two warning shots in the air. He then gave chase, but was quickly outdistanced by the teenagers.

Guard Dog Taken By Burglars

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Memphis police answered a burglar alarm early Wednesday at Peter's Penny Grocery and found a window pried open, but nothing seemed to be missing.

Officers said they discovered the only thing taken was a German shepherd that had been left as a guard against burglars.

conservative, little opposition has surfaced in and out of Congress to his nomination.

Such organizations as Americans for Democratic Action and the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights are opposed to Rehnquist's nomination, but they have announced they do not intend to fight Senate confirmation of Powell.

The American Bar Association's 12-member committee on the Federal judiciary not-fied the Senate panel Wednesday of its unanimous opinion that both Rehnquist and Powell are qualified to serve on the Supreme Court.

Such liberal Democrats as Philip A. Hart of Michigan, Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Birch Bayh of Indiana and John V. Tunney of California did most of the questioning at Wednesday's hearing.

Most of the Republicans, in the minority on the committee, still were waiting for their turn when an overnight recess was called.

Here are some of the highlights of the testimony Rehnquist gave in a calm, deliberate manner in answer to questions put to him:

He said that government wiretapping is "not an appealing thing to do and is justified only by exigent circumstances." Such forms of surveillance, he said, are legiti-mate only "to solve a crime or prevent the commission of a crime."

A Case is now before the Supreme Court challenging Mitchell's contention that court orders are not required for use of wiretaps on groups or individuals he concludes constitute a national security threat.

Rehnquist strongly indicated that, if confirmed, he would disqualify himself from sitting (Continued on Page 9)

House Chief Awaits Senate Showdown

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gauging rank-and-file unrest over the extended session and the increasingly critical financial state of affairs in Ohio, legislative leaders in both houses have vowed to press for action today on a permanent tax and budget plan for the state.

Both House Speaker Charles Kurfess, R-4 Perryburg, and Senate Majority Leader Theodore Gray, R-3 Piqua, indicated Wednesday they expected the joint House-Senate conference committee to report out a personal income tax bill geared to raise nearly $1 billion in new revenue every two years.

The issue has been before the committee ever since late September when the Senate threw out House-passed income tax legislation in favor of a sales tax boost.

The Senate's choice was made after organized labor split the Democratic party with strong objections to a tax package that it felt hit the individual wage earner harder than Ohio industry.

A floor test of the income tax compromise fashioned by both the conference committee and a "rump" group of four legislators interested in salvaging the concept of income taxation could come in the Senate soon after the committee report is finalized.

Kurfess says he doesn't plan floor action in the House until after the upper chamber has made its decision.

GOP Plans Political Dinners

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans hope to raise a whopping $5 million next Tuesday at a network of $500-a-plate dinners starring President Nixon, with a big chunk of the proceeds earmarked for the GOP campaign to re-elect him in 1972.

Nixon is to appear in person at two of the dinners, in New York and Chicago, and via closed-circuit television at the rest.

His supporting cast, at dinners in 20 cities, will range from Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and Bob Hope, in Chicago, to the Mitchells—Martha in San Francisco and John in Los Angeles.

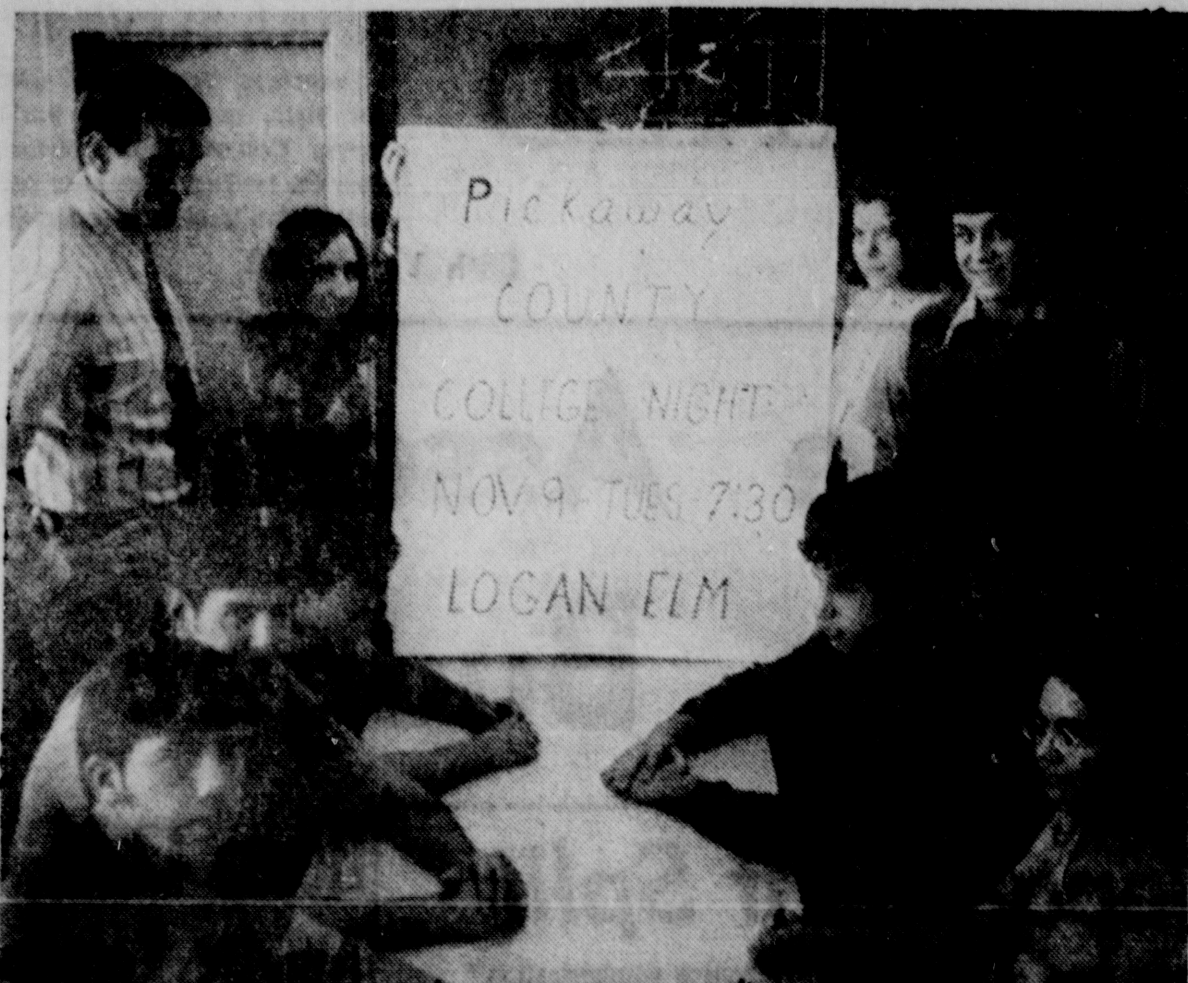

The White House has been putting a non-political label on Nixon's trips away from Washington this year, but it won't fit this time.

"These are Republican party functions and the President as the leader of the Republican Party will participate," said White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler.

Nixon flies to New York for the first half of that participation, his speech there to be broadcast on a closed-circuit network linking dinners in eastern cities from Boston to Miami.

Final passage of the measure came despite a threatened veto by the chief executive.

Administration concerns center on new language amended into the bill on the House floor setting uniform residency requirements to determine voter eligibility. Some of the factors to be weighed in deciding eligibility:

—Length of time an applicant has resided at his present address.

—Other addresses during the past six months.

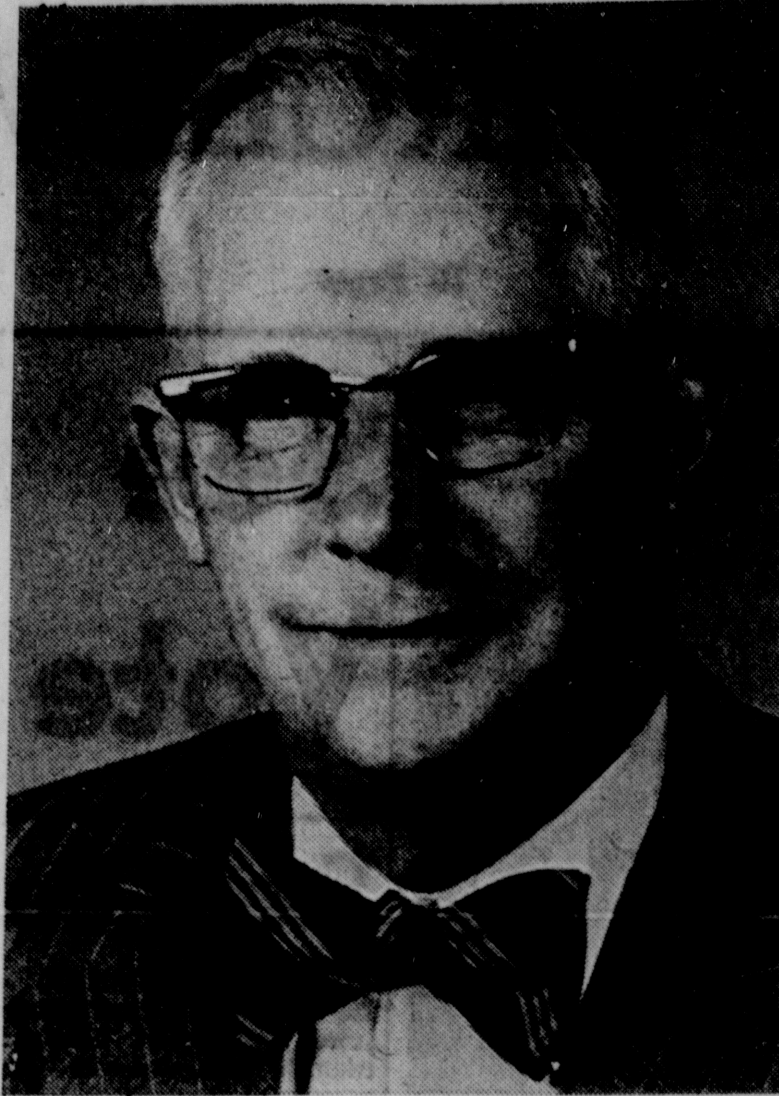

—Voting residences during the preceding two years.

—Address of auto registration.

—Whether the applicant has lived with his parents during the preceding six months.

The requirements were amended into the bill to replace "constitutionally questionable" wording in the original measure that made specific reference to student qualifications.

A federal court in Cincinnati has declared that such unevenly-applied standards are illegal. Legislative sources concede the substitute residency language could still deny most students the right to vote in their college communities.

Vaughan is a native of Buffalo and attended the University of Buffalo, Case, Hiram and Kent State. He has a masters degree in electrical and mechanical engineering.

His wife, Emily, is also a native of Buffalo. Married 39 years, they are the parents of two children, Clayton Jr., Cincinnati, and Mrs. Joan Sussman, Hebron.

Both children are teachers and Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan Jr. are the parents of two children.

Leaking Gas Causes Fire In Camper

A camping trailer belonging to Paul Marshall, 552 Sycamore, was extensively damaged by fire late Wednesday evening.

Marshall informed city fire officials that he went outside shortly after 10 a.m. last night to light the furnace in the 1971 model trailer which was parked at the rear of his house. He had returned to the house when the trailer exploded and went up in flames.

Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $3,000 with an additional $50 loss to the contents. Firemen say the explosion was caused by a gas leak in the trailer's plumbing between the gas tank and furnace.

Highway Garage Holds Winter Safety Session

The snow and ice removal season is approaching and Division Six of the Ohio Department of Highways is ready.

During the month of October, the Fall Dry Run Inspection and the Snow and Ice School were held at each county garage. The November accident prevention meetings, phase three in the winter preparation program, are being held this week.

Superintendent Ben List and the Pickaway county state highway maintenance crew met today with Safety Inspector John M. Makeever to discuss driving under winter road conditions. Two films were shown. Division Administrative Assistant, Gil Easterday spoke on overtime, sick leave and vacation policies.

The purpose of the preparation program is to assure that personnel and equipment are in readiness for the snow and ice season.

Swackhammers File Appeal

An appeal has been filed by children of the late M. E. Swackhammer on the recent decision in Common Pleas Court here dismissing their suit against E. A. Smith.

Smith was legal adviser to Swackhammer and drew up the will which left all of the Swackhammer holdings to the widow, Ida. The will has been contested since 1967 in various suits in the local and district appeals courts.

Marvin Swackhammer and other descendants of M. E. Swackhammer are seeking to have the recent opinion filed by Judge William Ammer overruled. The judgment barred the present legal action filed by the family members under state statute of limitations, claiming the suit is one alleging malpractice of Attorney Smith. The case seeks $30,000 loss from the estate and $100,000 in punitive damages against the attorney. A complaint of malpractice must be filed within a year of the client's death. Ammer ruled in dismissing the suit Oct. 13.

The weatherman does call for some form of moisture this afternoon, and has issued the first frost, and maybe even freeze warning as temperatures are expected to dip to the mid 20's tonight and tomorrow morning.

$300 For Hodgkin's Disease Radium Treatment Provided

Significant success in the use of intensive radiation to control certain cases of Hodgkin's disease has prompted the Leukemia Society of America, Inc. to broaden its patient-aid program to include such therapy.

"Hodgkin's is one of the most potentially curable to the disorders that come within our agency's scope of concern," said Dr. John J. Kenny, chairman of the patient-aid committee, in announcing the voluntary health organization's expanded operating policy. "With early diagnosis and prompt treatment in the beginning stages of the disease, it is possible to save as many as 80 to 90 per cent of those affected by it," he explained.

Accordingly, the Leukemia Society will provide up to $300 to help individual out-patients meet the high costs of radiation necessary for the control of their illness. Supplementary financial assistance will continue to be available for patients with leukemia and allied diseases who otherwise would not be able to afford the expensive drugs they need to survive.

Recent developments in drugs and improved radiation techniques have brightened the prognosis for those suffering from the disease, he emphasized. "It was considered inevitably fatal until a few years ago. Now, with the new procedures, there is definite hope for a lasting cure," he said.

More than 40 chapters located in the major cities throughout the country administer the Society's program on an area basis. This year the agency is spending about $190,000 for patient-aid, in addition to the million dollars it has earmarked for support of medical and scientific investigators engaged in research focused on leukemia and allied diseases. The organization also conducts educational programs on both a professional and public level. All activities are supported by voluntary contributions from individuals, family foundations, commerce and industry groups.

Local Phone Repairman Trained

Mansil L. Hurlbut, 24, of 220 Lewis Road, an installer-repairman, has received a certificate for completing a course in special customer equipment at General Telephone Co. of Ohio's Plant Training School here.

The course deals with transistorized, miniaturized equipment used for special customer services, such as a private line between two industrial plants.

Equipment of this kind can be installed on the customer's premises without taking up valuable space. Within a week, employees are taught how to connect and test the equipment.

A graduate of Circleville High School, Hurlbut has been with the company about two and one-half years. He works in Circleville, Ashville, Williamsport and Amanda exchanges in the company's Circleville district.

Hurlbut previously completed five other specialized courses in the company's training program.

Icy Blast Gives Taste Of Winter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An icy blast of arctic air gave the East and Midwest a pre-season taste of winter today as snow, rain and high winds whipped parts of both regions.

Two inches of snow blanketed Grand Rapids, Mich., and an inch fell at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. Rain and snow chilled Buffalo, N.Y., and Erie, Pa.

Temperatures dipped into the 40s as far south as northern Florida. Frost nipped almost the entire Midwest.

Light rain dampened the Pacific Northwest.

Fair weather was the rule elsewhere.

A severe squall line that ripped through the Norfolk-Portsmouth, Va., area Wednesday caused an estimated $300,000 to $400,000 damage. Officials said 22 homes and eight businesses were damaged and four persons were injured, one seriously.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 15 at Evanston, Wyo., and Jamestown, N.D., to 79 at Key West, Fla.

Wave Of Nostalgia

There seems to be no diminution of the wave of nostalgia that has swept the nation in recent years, resulting in houses being furnished like they were 100 years ago and men adopting the facial and cranial foliage of the same period.

Whether this is a phenomena peculiar to the United States or it has also surfaced in other countries is not clear.

Everything that was junked in the past is being resurrected as far as possible, to the accompaniment of moans because of items that cannot be located. Perhaps this really started with lamps. Some of the most outlandish discards were fashioned into lamps. What possible connection could there be between a lamp and a cuspidor?

Winchester made a bundle selling a rifle like Buffalo Bill shot. Old radios that never worked are now prize finds.

This goes on and on, and never conclude that it has reached its end. No one yet brought out a pre-World War I automobile, complete with flapping oilcloth top and hand crank. But don't be surprised to see these on the road and parked in expensive driveways any day.

Sniffing Success

The U. S. Bureau of Customs, despite the electronic gear and sophisticated undercover apparatus at its disposal, has found its canine operatives to be among the most effective tools in the campaign against illicit drugs. In the first year of operation, dogs trained to sniff drugs in packages uncovered nearly $3 million worth of narcotics and other illegal drugs smugglers were attempting to bring into the country.

That is good sniffing. So good that sensitive canine snouts might be useful in helping stem some of the other ills which beset society. Such as drug users on the streets in neighborhoods where use is known to be prevalent.

Or with a little fine tuning in their training, the animals might be able to detect guns or other weapons hidden on a person boarding a plane. With a little ingenuity, such as spraying price tags with a distinctive aroma, they might even apprehend shoplifters.

Having proved themselves in the smuggling field, canines deserve diversification. They have the added advantage that few suspects will argue with the agent with a sharp nose and a growl.

Red Flotillas

News of a fleet of Russian naval vessels milling about in mid-Atlantic, presumably headed for Cuba, caused hardly a ripple in the U.S. and received almost no mention in the news media.

Soviet ships of war no longer cause excitement, whether because the public takes them for granted or for some other reason is not clear. They have been reported recently in the Pacific, near Alaska and Hawaii, but no one rushed to enlist.

The American public may have been conditioned for the naval show of strength by the USSR by reports that Russian naval power in the Mediterranean has been greatly increased. But it wasn't many years ago when these floating red flotillas would have been unwelcome in many areas of the globe.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I know that children swallow a great deal of air when they eat. Do adults do the same thing? Can this account for a heavy feeling after eating even if it is a light meal?

Dear Mr. G.: Air enters the stomach in adults as well as children and can accumulate and cause a great deal of distress. The gas can even pass into the intestines and produce symptoms of distension and real colicky distress.

Rapid eating along with energetic conversation is one of the major reasons for swallowing air. The strange thing is that the distress is mostly due to nitrogen rather than oxygen since the latter is more readily absorbed into the blood stream and causes little annoyance.

There are some anatomical peculiarities of the stomach and the intestines that can be responsible for trapping air in pockets and cause discomfort by pressure.

It must be remembered that there are a great many foods, even "light" ones, that are gas-forming. Carbonated beverages, cabbage and beans are the common offenders.

What can cause a collapsed lung in a perfectly normal, healthy person? I have never been sick before and suddenly had this strange condition.

Mr. O.P.E., Ariz. Dear Mr. E.: The condition you describe may be the one referred to as spontaneous pneumothorax. A fractured rib or other injury may be responsible for pressure outside of the lung and collapse it. Sometimes an air bubble in a lung may rupture, causing a collapse of the lung.

Following surgery, a plug of mucus may be responsible, especially in cases with prolonged anesthesia. In most instances the condition is readily controlled without surgery. Sometimes a tube is placed into the chest cavity to draw off the air and permit the lung to expand to its normal position.

"Perfectly healthy" people may have some unsuspected condition until it becomes evident. For this reason, health check-ups, even in normally healthy people, should be part of a regular health program.

Long term education for the art of living is more important than trying to learn it after retirement.

Newcomerstown's Young Mayor Eyes New Industry

NEWCOMERSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Nineteen-year-old Ronald Hooker says the people of this Eastern Ohio village elected him mayor "because they think I am smart enough to do something."

And Hooker, who has an IQ of 149, says it looks as though he has "a great opportunity to do it."

Hooker campaigned on a promise, among other things, to work to bring new industry and jobs to Newcomerstown, and he says now that he is elected he will work with the Chamber of Commerce to transform the promises into deeds.

The youthful mayor who is attending Ashland College and expects to get his degree before his four-year term is ended, won as a write-in candidate. He says a big part of his campaign was showing every voter in town how to fill in his name on a write-in ballot.

With the support of groups such as the Chamber of Commerce and the Welcome Wagon he won a solid victory, polling 1,067 of the 1,558 votes cast. The other votes were split among four opponents.

He launched his campaign in June, after 18-year-olds were Clarence Hooker, managed the given the vote, and his father, campaign.

He talked to every resident of the village, emphasizing his conservative philosophy.

"This community doesn't like radical people," said Hooker. "I was really stunned at the size of my victory," he said. "I thought because everyone was with me that I would win, but not this big."

Laff-A-Day

"Let's join the conservation movement—starting with money."

STONE AGE — A unclothed primitive tribesman watches a missionary plane preparing to take off at Wamerna in the West Irian territory of New Guinea. The advent of aircraft in region is pushing the stone age people into modern times in a giant leap. The Indonesian government is trying, some think with harmful effects, to get the tribesmen to wear clothes and learn the Indonesian language.

Senator Edward Kennedy, reports columnist Mary McGrory, is all set to ask William Rehnquist whether he is a "contemporary man." No doubt he will, for Kennedy, after gazing upon Judge Clement Haynsworth, pronounced that lo! Haynsworth was not a "contemporary man."

What, however, can Rehnquist reply if Teddy confronts him with this blockbuster question? Clearly Rehnquist's physical presence in the Senate hearing room will not be enough to prove him contemporary. He might say he does not quite know what "contemporary" means in the Kennedy lexicon, but that if knowing how to drive an automobile is one of the marks of contemporaneity, he, Rehnquist, knows how to drive one — thus giving him an edge on Teddy.

Still, there are other criteria, one gathers, and when you consider all of them Teddy is undoubtedly more contemporary than Rehnquist. In the Age of McLuhan the struggle to stay in the foreground of media attention is peculiarly intense. One way to do so is to turn up the rhetorical decibels, heighten every statement, take positions on complicated matters that can be put in one stark sentence, even say wild things. The public memory is short, and yesterday's extravagance is obliterated by today's socko pronouncement.

Contemporary Man

By JEFFERY HART

Thus Teddy gave it out that Nixon's six Supreme Court prospects looked to him like John Birchers. Wow! His exact formulation was that they reminded him of the people who put up the billboards demanding the impeachment of Earl Warren. But everyone knows who puts up those billboards. Teddy's statement made the news, and for such an accomplishment a little casual character assassination was a small price to pay.

The same week, Teddy said that Nixon was trying to destroy the Constitution. Not that the Administration was mistaken or inept, not that this or that policy was ill advised. It was trying to destroy the Constitution. That got in the news too, naturally.

The same week, Teddy shouldered his way into the news again by demanding that the British pull their troops out of Northern Ireland immediately. It did not matter to him that everyone, left, right and center, who knows anything about the situation in Ulster, agrees that such withdrawal would lead to a bloodbath. Such consequences are irrelevant to Kennedy. His statement made the news. And anyway, if the British did take his advice, the bloodbath probably wouldn't occur for at least a couple of weeks, by which time his statement would have been forgotten. Kennedy apparently is no more troubled by the prospect of a slaughter in Northern Ireland than he is by the prospect of one in Hue or Saigon.

Teddy has always been loud in his championship of democratic principle — reform of the Democratic Party to make it more responsive to the popular will, one-man-one-vote, and so on. He also advises the British to bring about the union of Northern and Southern Ireland. Does it matter to him that the overwhelming majority in the North desire to remain British subjects? Is there any hint that he senses a contradiction between this position and the principle of majority rule? The answer is no. His statement got a big play and it delighted those among his admirers who take an atavistic delight in seeing the British told off. The Heath government treated Kennedy with the icy contempt he deserves.

The U.S. should, according to Teddy, a) cease intervening in Vietnam, but insure democratic elections there, and b) intervene in Ulster and Bangla Desh. Do I contradict myself? asked Walt Whitman, and triumphantly answered his own question: Yes, I contradict myself. He meant to express his vitality, indeed his modernity. By that criterion, Teddy Kennedy is a very contemporary man. Rehnquist should concede him a monopoly on it.

The Business World

By CHARLES C. CAIN (For John Cuniff)

NEW YORK (AP) — First National City Bank suggests families who have trouble making ends meet use the "cash flow" accounting procedure practiced by America's biggest corporations.

Basically, the cash flow technique matches cash outgo against income, indicating how much money the family needs and how much spending it must postpone to keep expenditures under control and achieve long-term financial goals.

"The secret of cash flow is that it doesn't try just to match the cash you have today with the expenses you have today," the New York bank explains. "Rather it tries to anticipate your expenses for the whole year and compare them with the money you'll have coming in for the whole year."

The bank suggests the use of five different work sheets.

The first is a list of the types of income a family has coming in. The second records a family's fixed expenses; over a year, which the bank suggests can be obtained by going through past checkbook stubs, receipts, income tax returns and other records that might help the family remember what its unavoidable expenses were last year.

The third sheet tells the family how much discretionary income they have for variable expenses or what they have left after they have subtracted fixed expenses from income.

On the fourth worksheet the bank suggests families record how they want to spend this discretionary income for things such as vacations, clothing, entertainment and medical expenses. On the fifth worksheet, variable expenses are subtracted from discretionary income.

Obviously, the bank points out, if the discretionary income is greater the family has no budgetary problems. But if variable expenses are greater, cuts are needed.

The system allows families to make sure money is available to cover unexpected emergencies and some of the extras of life, the bank says.

"And more importantly by analyzing your cash flow, you can uncover areas of expense that might be cut to help you make ends meet today and increase your savings for the future," it continues.

The bank says that one mistake many families make when budgeting is to try to reduce family entertainment and personal allowances to such a low level that no one sticks to them or that all the fun is taken out of everyday life.

"A reasonable amount of pocket money for personal treats will help prevent the family from feeling they deserve those extravagant splurges that can topple the most carefully thought out expense plan," it says.

The bank warns that because all budgets are a family affair each person should understand the problem and feel responsible for his share in holding down expenses.

And cash flow estimates should never be so rigid they can't accommodate changes in plans by the family or emergencies.

Lutheran Friendship Circle held its Halloween masquerade party at St. Jacob's Church in Tarlton, with Franklin and Wilma Strous as hosts.

After the unmasking, the regular meeting was conducted by the vice president, Carl Strous. For devotions, the 67th Psalm was read by Franklin Strous. During the business session, a motion was made to hold the December meeting on the 9th with a 6 p.m. potluck chili supper, to be followed by the annual tree-trimming ceremony at the church. The vice president requested that Nelson Jones and his committee of tree-cutters secure the church's Christmas tree again this year.

Following adjournment, these members and their families enjoyed the refreshments for the evening: Mr. and Mrs. Carl Strous, Mrs. Louise Mathews, Mrs. Ned Reichelderfer, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Swain, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph VanFossen, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Jones, and the host and hostess.

Kissinger Staffers Find Excitement In Power Center

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Status on Henry Kissinger's staff isn't winking out to San Clemente on a military jet, or top-secret security clearance, or even access to the White House tennis court.

Status for the 48 members of the National Security Council staff is access to Kissinger. "The only thing that counts around here is your slot with Henry," said one of them.

Interviews with 18 NSC aides offer a glimpse into the pressure-cooker atmosphere that surrounds those close to Kissinger, who heads the council as President Nixon's special assistant for national security affairs.

"You do things for Henry you didn't think you were capable of," said Winston Lord, 34, of New York City. "He may know better than the persons themselves what they're capable of."

In organizing his staff, Kissinger dipped into the federal bureaucracy, recruiting members from the State and Defense departments and the Central Intelligence Agency. But he also went outside the government and hired a half-dozen bright young people, some of them under 30 and some of them Democrats, to get the benefit of their expertise in the specific areas.

Among them are 26-year-old Mary Brownell of Asheville, N.C., whose specialty is Latin America; 28-year-old Rosemary Neaher of Garden City, N.Y., an expert on the Middle East; and 28-year-old Robert D. Hor-matz of Baltimore, an economic adviser.

For most of those interviewed, the sessions were the first time they had authority to talk to a reporter since joining the NSC staff. All were instructed by Kissinger's deputy, Brig. Gen. Alexander M. Haig, to keep the conversations "non-substantive," meaning policy and national security matters were not to be discussed.

They weren't.

Under the ground rules as laid down by Haig, the conversation tended to center on the demands Kissinger makes on his staff, and the satisfaction the staff gets from working for him.

"The motivation comes from working at the center of foreign policy," said Lord, who came to the NSC after service in both the Defense and State departments.

As a trouble-shooter for special diplomatic missions, with emphasis on the Far East, Lord sees the boss more than most. He was one of two staffers to accompany Kissinger on the first mission to Communist China. "I think of Henry as a Vince Lombardi in the pursuit of excellence," Lord said.

Dennis H. Sachs, 28, of Portland, Ore., agreed with Lord that the job satisfaction stems from being at the center of power. "There's a psychic income of being associated at this high level with decision making," he said. "It's this income which sustains you."

Sachs, a Berkeley graduate with master's degrees in economics and urban regional planning from the University of Pennsylvania, is responsible for analyzing military and economic assistance programs.

Like most of his colleagues, Sachs works in the Executive Office Building next to the White House. With few exceptions, the council offices are small, utilitarian and furnished in Early Bureaucrat—plastic brown sofas, cheap impressionist prints and thin rugs the color of cement.

But if the staffers' offices are not impressive, their responsibilities are.

One of their duties is to write what they call "talking points" for presidential news conferences: questions they think reporters will ask and preparing the answers.

"It's great to watch one of these things and hear your question come up," one staffer said. "You know exactly what the President is going to say because you wrote the answer yourself. And the impressive thing is that he expands on your answer with his own ideas and insights."

Also, the staff is expected to consult with various government departments before drawing up memos, reports, recommendations and options. These go to the President who can then make a decision with full awareness of agency positions and national security implications.

All staff members work long hours, six and often seven days a week. Salaries range from $15,000 to $36,000 a year.

The workload, the pressure, lack of public recognition and what some consider to be inadequate access to Kissinger have driven away many staffers. Of 17 original aides, only 7 remain.

"These kinds of jobs are so draining that there is seldom but rapid turnover," said Haig. "With such long hours, the price they pay with their families, little salary and little publicity, they come here at a personal and professional risk."

Haig, recruited from the Pentagon as Kissinger's liaison man with the military, watches over staff operations when Kissinger is away.

"In many ways, Haig holds the staff together," one staff member said. "He understands the human element. This is something Kissinger lacks. Al knows the staff as individuals."

While the staff looks to Haig as the man who understands their problems, Kissinger is said to have been personally shaken by the resignations of several key aides.

In an interview, he made it clear that he is aware of their frustrations, and understands how much he depends on their work.

"They work 15 hours a day and anonymously," said Kissinger. "They do all the background work. Without them, I could not function."

And how does he reward them? Kissinger paused a moment, then quipped, "Reward them? Why, with more work."

Pic away Grange Report

SALT CREEK VALLEY GRANGE

With coffee cups in hand, the members of Salt Creek Valley Grange met last evening for their regular business meeting conducted by Francis Fraunfelder and the literary program directed by Paul Dunkle.

Guests for the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bidwell of Scioto Grange who gave a report on the proceedings of the Ohio State Grange in their 99th session held in Toledo.

The program theme "Coffee Cup and Cookies" proved most interesting for all in attendance. After an exhibition and explanation of the varied cups, members took part in a filled cup contest which was won by Mary DeLong. Eloise Dunkle gave a list of "Don'ts" from a book by Eric Stone.

An interesting contest of coffee recognition followed with Mrs. DeLong again being the winner proving her nose knows.

Wayne Cryder summarized the evening with an explanation of "Mrs. Fogarty's Cake".

Donna Beougher reminded members that the grange would host the pomona meeting on November 6th and the grange would again furnish gifts to the Veterans' Hospital. The wrapped gifts are to be brought to the next grange meeting.

A discussion was held concerning the donation of money from local grange funds to be used in the county. Salt Creek Grange will serve as leader of a group to donate the money to a worthy cause decided the first of next year.

At the Nov. 16 meeting members having birthdays from May 17 to Nov. 16 will be guests with the other members serving as the hosts. All members are urged to be present.

Following the meeting and the program, members enjoyed the favorite cookies brought in conjunction with the program theme. Serving as hosts were: the Colins, the Judys and the Dunks.

The little nursery class sang several numbers Sunday morning.

The cast for the play has been selected and they have started practicing. The play will be in the near future. Nov. 7 is Rally day. Rev. Garwood Kinsley will be guest speaker. Mr. and Mrs. Dunham will lead the singing.

George and Eileen Linder, sons George Jr. and Don, and grandson Donnie Linder spent last week fishing at Marble Head, on Lake Erie. The catch was great, they came home with around 500 lovely perch. The fish were biting as fast as they would throw in the line. This isn't any fish story, as I can verify this as I have a big mess of fish in my freezer. Thanks to the Linders.

Jim Sauntrey is better at this writing but still in the hospital in Albany, New York. Jim will be confined at the hospital for some time yet. He is the son of Don and Twila Sauntrey and the grandson of the late James Sprouse. The Sauntreys were former residents of our town.

Our town was full of Ghosts and Goblins Saturday night. The kids had lots of fun Trick and Treating, then went to the school for an evening of fun. Prizes were given to the different age groups, also the cake walk that the kids all love. A good time was had by all.

Bruce and Carmen Dountz, Steve and Mary Beth Dountz, Jill and friend, Richard Riddle and Mrs. Orville Dountz were Sunday visitors with Nick and Rose Dountz of Georgetown.

The Philathea Club will hold their regular meeting Tuesday Nov. 9 at 8 p.m. at the church.

Mrs. Elva Parmenter and son John spent Thursday in Bloomfield, Kentucky.

Mrs. Emma McGhee and daughter Betty were Sunday visitors with Emma's sister-in-law at Five Points and with Mrs. Evelyn Johnson and family.

Miss Christine Prasser and Mr. Dickson Lester were united in marriage Oct. 23 in Deerfield, Ill. Mr. Lester is the son of Colonel Nick and Sonny Lester. The Lesters were formerly of this community.

Jerry Weber was injured last week at work, when a battery exploded and hit him in the face. He was sent home but the injury wasn't very serious. He sure was lucky.

Ghosts and Goblins were the setting for a Halloween party Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Beckman. Several young folks of our Community were entertained in the Halloween tradition playing games. The evening was enjoyed by all. Lots of good eats were served by the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kaiser and three other couples from Dupont, had dinner Saturday evening at David's Buffet.

June Steele spent Friday with her daughter Patty Collins and family of Grove City.

John and Dave Berger, Mike and Julie were fishing last Sunday on Lake Erie. Their catch was 125 perch. The fishing must be real good this time of the year as everyone is coming home with lots of fish.

Little Cynthia Kay Walker was baptized Sunday morning into the United Methodist Church. She is the baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Walker.

Little Kristian Beth Crego is a patient in Children Hospital.

Mr. Wes Climer isn't very good, at this writing. He had pneumonia about 3 weeks ago, and just can't seem to get over it. Mr. Climer is 84 years young.

Views On TV - Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Moyers, who was presidential press secretary for Lyndon B. Johnson, is host on a weekly educational television network discussion program, "This Week." His toughest assignment of the season was presiding Wednesday night over a critical analysis of his former boss's book, "The Vantage Point: Perspectives of the Presidency, 1963-1969."

Moyers, who probably knows more about Johnson than any of the three White House correspondents discussing the author and his book — often in complimentary terms — restrained himself in his interrogator's role.

He smoothly continued to question his guests after swallowing some tart observations. James Deakin, for instance, described the volume about Johnson's tenure as "not as Lyndon Johnson saw it but as he wishes us to see it."

William Lawrence, a veteran White House reporter, accused the former president of occasionally "shaving the truth." While Moyers injected a few sharp questions, only his tone of voice indicated he was on the defensive.

Consensus of the three guests seemed to be that the book reflected little of the "vital, tempestuous man" as one of the described the Johnson they had known and for whom they felt mixed emotions.

The program was hardly typical of the series. A man of opinions and perception, Moyers usually participates more actively in the discussion. It's an interesting, worthy series but a bit ragged in parts.

ABC's "The Smith Family," Henry Fonda's TV vehicle which is certainly making no waves, looked brighter this week with an action show and none of that cozy family stuff for a change.

Word was around earlier that the series would shift emphasis this season to cops-and-robbers stuff, but to date this type of treatment has been the exception.

Dick Cavett, ABC's late night talk show host, has won a year's renewal of his network contract. It will take him through 1972. In recent weeks Cavett and CBS's Merv Griffin have been slugging it out toe-to-toe in the ratings for second place.

It is widely anticipated that Cavett will not have his arch rival around for long since Griffin has indicated he wants out of his current spot by year's end.

Johnny Carson and his "Tonight Show" on NBC remain a lap ahead of the field.

Numbers stenciled on the roofs of liquor delivery trucks in Los Angeles have resulted in a drastic decrease in the hijacking of such vehicles. The numbers aid police helicopter pilots.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Secretary-Shouldn't Censor Boss's Mail

DEAR ABBY: I am a secretary and one of my duties is to open my boss's mail. The past few months he has been getting some pornographic advertisements. I didn't examine this material very closely, I just destroyed it. On a few occasions he has asked me if that was "all" the mail there was, and I have said yes.

I'm wondering if I should continue to destroy this disgusting material, or should I get my courage up and give it to him?

You may want to use this in your column since other secretaries must run into the same problem, but if you do, please sign me "WONDERING IF" without disclosing my name of town because if my boss sees this, I won't have to wonder anymore.

"WONDERING IF"

DEAR WONDERING: ALL mail addressed to your boss should be handed over to him. For you to act as a self-appointed censor is both presumptuous and illegal. And if he's been anticipating some of the mail you destroyed, and finds out that you intercepted it, you could be in trouble and out of a job.

DEAR ABBY: I am a lonely widow. Several years ago, when I was teaching school in another city, I met a handsome, retired military officer. He was a wonderful dancer, good company, and always a perfect gentleman.

On our third date I said, "I make a good salary as a teacher. How much do you get in the ways of retirement pay?" He never asked me for another date. What did I do wrong?

EHTEL IN SAN DIEGO

DEAR ETHEL: You asked him a question with a "ring" in it, for which he was not ready.

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend called me up last night and it turned out to be a rather lengthy conversation as I was in a rather talkative mood. Well since the calls between us are toll calls, he said, "Let's hang up, and you call me back so you'll pay for the rest of the call."

After I thought it over I became very angry because I thought he was being cheap. Isn't the expense of toll calls part of the cost of courting? Besides, I've ironed and mended his clothes on occasion, and have had him over for meals, so I think I've reciprocated. I told him that a gentleman should not even mention the cost of phone calls to a lady. Anyway, that incident has come between us. I said I had never heard of such a thing. He said it's being done by other people. What do you think of a boy asking a girl to call him back to save on the toll charge?

JUST ASKING

DEAR JUST: It depends upon how much money each party has, and the relationship between them.

DEAR ABBY: My husband lies so much he actually believes his own lies! It is so embarrassing to me and the children.

I told him he needed to see a head doctor, but he thinks everyone should see one but him. Is there any hope for him? He's only 49. Maybe you can reach him. I've given up.

test-drive CHARGER!

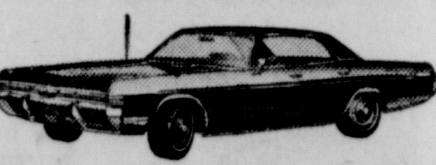

With last year's Charger sales up 75 percent, you know that a lot of people think Charger is the car for them. Most people are initially attracted to Charger's great-looking shape. But when you take a new Charger for a test drive, you'll discover other reasons for Charger's success. Like the real family-sized room of Charger. If you want a real family sports car—get a '72 Charger. Take one for a test drive soon!

test-drive CORONET!

Bring your whole family down to the showroom and check out the real convenience of Coronet's four big doors. Easy in. Easy out. So before you buy your family a new car, bring them all down to your local Dodge Boy's. And take a ride in the new 1972 Dodge Coronet.

test-drive MONACO!

When you take Monaco on the road, you'll find out what "the ride with the quiet inside" is all about. It's Torsion-Quiet Ride that isolates you from road and engine noises. DEPEND ON THE DODGE BOYS

EXPLANATION — Senator Harry Armstrong (left), Nelson Stevens (center) and Representative Myrl Shoemaker (right), discuss the amendment to House Bill

459 that will return the Circleville Armory to the city of Circleville. The legislation is awaiting Gov. John Gilligan's signature. Armstrong and Shoemaker, sponsors of the amendment, appeared at the

in such cases since he said he had assisted in preparing the government's brief in the arguments now before the court.

He testified that the purpose of the Bill of Rights is "to put restraints on the government." He said just the fact that a court decision may restrict the police is no argument against the ruling.

The assistant attorney general, appointed to his Justice Department post in 1969 after practicing law in Phoenix, said he felt Ohio national guardsmen, in firing on Kent State student demonstrators, had made "misguided and unwarranted use of force."

But in answer to a question by Kennedy, he said he had not urged a federal grand jury investigation. He testified this was out of his bailiwick.

Rehnquist said he played only a minor role in the government's attempt to prevent publication of the top-secret Pentagon Papers by several newspapers.

Rehnquist said he believes in the "concept of neighborhood schools" and "has some reservations about transporting students great distances" to accomplish desegregation.

Rehnquist defended the mass arrests by Washington police of antiwar demonstrators who tried in May to shut down the government.

Questioned about antiwar amendments offered in Congress, Rehnquist said he has reservations about the constitutional power of Congress to pass legislation limiting a President's authority "to preserve or save the lives of men already legally in the field of battle."

But he said Congress' power to shut off funds to finance a war is so clear that he does not regard it as a debatable constitutional issue.

Ashville Kiwanis Tours Boys Rehabilitation Center-TICO

Ashville Kiwanians held their Tuesday meeting at the Training Institute of Central Ohio in Columbus. The meeting was arranged by Larry Toole and Bill Huston.

The rehabilitation program used at the institute was explained to the visiting Kiwanis by members of the TICO staff. The Ashville group were able to visit Cedar Cottage, which provides housing for boys who have been sentenced there for one year to 18 months.

After touring the facility, Kiwanians provided pizzas and soft drinks for all the youths, then spent the evening with the boys playing pool, cards and talking.

The club's annual progress report and money-making project, the Kiwanis Newsie, is being organized by co-chairmen

Bill Huston and Russ Toole. All committee chairmen are asked to write up articles on past projects and give it to the newspaper workers as soon as possible. The paper is sold during the Christmas holiday.

Interclub chairman Don Collins reported that all members of the Ashville Club had been on a visiting interclub during the month of October.

Invitations were issued to local members to visit with the Gahanna group on Monday evening, the Fairfield club on Tuesday morning or Columbus Eastern on Wednesday evening during November.

In summary, President Rodger Southward commented on the fine return of the first month's committee reports and stated that the first load of newspapers will be sold Nov. 13. Any individual who would like newspapers picked up should call Southward at 983-2465 or any other Ashville Kiwanian.

Malpractice Claim Denied By Physicians

CINCINNATI (AP) — Three physicians, acting as an "expert" jury in an unusual court proceeding, Wednesday absolved an orthopedic surgeon of charges of malpractice in a $128,000 lawsuit.

The panel ruled that "diagnosis in medicine is easily accomplished in retrospect" in finding in favor of Dr. John Schmerge. Good Samaritan Hospital, named in the same suit, was also found innocent.

Arthur Coleman of Cincinnati contended that the hospital staff and Dr. Schmerge failed to diagnose a complicated fracture in his left hand when he was treated as an emergency patient in September, 1966. He claimed the defendants were negligent and that the hand is now permanently crippled.

The suit also alleged the extent of the injury was not discovered by the physician until a month after initial treatment.

Schmerge denied the latter allegation and said the permanent injury was inevitable.

Hamilton County Court Judge William S. Mathews, who inaugurated the unusual procedure, dismissed the suit against the hospital. He said the hospital was not responsible since the departments involved are operated by doctors on contract.

Mathews said the use of the "experts" was permitted only after both defendants and the plaintiff agreed to the procedure.

Mathews said the method had been suggested at a medical malpractice seminar. The Cincinnati Academy of Medicine recruited three physicians for the jury — Dr. El Rubenstein, a specialist in X-ray diagnosis and Drs. T. H. Vinke and Edward Zenni Jr., both orthopedic surgeons.

Mathews said that had the physicians found the defendant negligent, a regular jury would have been called to determine compensation.

'Goof' Stalls Hamilton County Vote Tally

CINCINNATI (AP) — Except for one time in 1964 when a photographer's flash bulb scared it, Hamilton County's electronic vote counting machine — the Coleman System — has proven an accurate, if not a speedy, system.

Sold to the Hamilton County Board of Elections in 1963 by Theodore Coleman for $1.6 million, it satisfied the Cincinnati Charter, which required all votes in city council elections to be counted in a single location.

The law was part of the charter reform in the mid-1920s to eliminate wholesale ballot stuffing at the precincts.

The board of elections in 1964 sold its voting machines used outside Cincinnati and decided to concentrate on the new electronic system. Voters had defeated a proposal to install voting machines throughout Hamilton County in 1955.

Local parties agreed the Coleman system was accurate until Tuesday night when it produced no results on the Cincinnati, suburban and county elections. It was determined that new speed-up equipment, which cost $525,000, was not properly programmed and would have to be redone.

Before Coleman, all ballots in the Cincinnati city elections were carted to a local hotel and hand counted at a cost of $50,000 per election.

The count was even slower before 1957 when the city had proportional representation voting and results were sometimes delayed a week.

The system required voters to select candidates by placing a number next to their names by preference.

Coleman's first performance in 1964 counted the county's 1,365 precincts in 12 hours and 15 minutes, but missed counting 40 ballots.

Experts from the Coleman firm went over the operation several days and finally ruled that the votes were lost because of the flash of a photographer's camera had upset a scanner.

Instead of marking ballots for the Coleman system, voters stamp a square next to the candidate's name with a sensitized ink. The scanner on the three-story machine picks up the stamp mark and records it as a vote. If the stamp is unclear or too many candidates were selected, the ballot is tossed out for inspection by an election official.

Voting results, however, are seldom known before noon the following day. As a result of late primary results in 1970, Ted Brown said his patience had come to an end with the Hamilton County system.

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A Lake Erie search for Fostoria fishermen Woodrow Zender, 51, and Charles Thiry Jr., 36, was suspended Wednesday by the Coast Guard.

A Coast Guard spokesman said a helicopter searched 1,700 square miles Wednesday without finding a sign of the pair. The spokesman said the search centered around uninhabited islands in western Lake Erie.

The Coast guard will not resume the search unless new information becomes available, the spokesman added.

The 16-foot boat used by the men was found moored at Pelee Island Tuesday with their fishing gear aboard it. No trace of the pair was found.

9 out of 10 new Chryslers registered in the last 10 years are still on the road.

1962 Chrysler

That should tell you a lot about the cars we sell.

Whether you own a big or small car, pay a little or a lot, the one thing you don't need from a car is trouble. You want a car that will hold up. A car that's built to last.

Well, we're with you. Just look at this figure:
9 out of 10 new Chryslers registered in the last 10 years are still on the road.

This includes all the various owners, any kind of terrain, and numbers of miles. But every Chrysler is designed and built the way you want it—to last. So even if you won't be keeping a car for years and years, it's good to know you've got all that quality going for you in your first year as well as in later years.

Every Chrysler Imperial is road-tested at the factory.

If our cars aren't right, we don't want you to have them. For example, every Imperial is put through a road test at the factory that includes over 100 different checks before it reaches you. This year every Chrysler car offers a new optional electronic ignition system that does away with the points and condenser that can wear out. This helps keep the engine tuned longer. And a tuned engine means cleaner exhaust.

From our lowest-priced Chrysler Royal to our big, luxurious Imperial, Chrysler cars are built to last. The same is true of every Chrysler-engineered car we sell—Valiant, Duster, Cricket, Satellite and Fury.

We think that's the kind of car America wants. That's the kind of car we'd like to show you. Come see us today.

FRIDAY'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A very interesting day for you to start a new set of conditions in operation that have to do with outlets requiring considerable scope to them and for adding charm, beauty, color and culture to them so they are more pleasant and valuable as well. Express your school of philosophy in a down-to-earth manner.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Stick to theory when handling partnership matters since associates are watching you closely. You find you have big opportunity through discussions with others. Don't let them slip through your fingers.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) An intelligent discussion with mate shows how to get business affairs handled more wisely and well. A new project can be started with success following. Figure well the cost of supplies.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A good day to plan what pleasures you want the most in the future and plan for them, eliminating those that are not good for you. Consider the cost well. Make your business affairs run more smoothly.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A businesslike talk with kin will bring just the right results so that your lives run more smoothly and successfully. Use that smile more and avoid argument. Take it easy in the evening.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Instead of criticizing an attachment, listen carefully to what is being suggested instead and cooperate with him or her. Renew friendship with one who is out of the country or state via a conciliatory letter.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You can get out of that financial bind if you do very precise work and earn greater profits. Add whatever beauty and comfort you can to your home and improve its value. Show that you have good taste.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are confused about just what to do today, so consult with ally who has his feet on the ground and you get right ideas. Trust your adviser where some big business deal is concerned. Take it easy at

With news of all parts of the Orient before us each day, most of us feel a need to come to a better understanding of the Far East. Discussed in today's column are some books on the Pacific in WW II, viewed now from a twenty-five year perspective. Also, there is a title on the little-publicized Aleutian War, and some good background works.

In a two volume, well-researched work, John Toland has attempted to tell the history of Japan from 1936-1945. This period includes both the invasion of Manchuria and the dropping of the atom bomb. Toland, who has written other war histories in narrative form, is qualified for his task. He is married to a Japanese, and with her he spent fifteen months obtaining interviews in many countries of the Far East. His point of view is that of the Japanese, and there are several revelations in the books which will surprise American readers. An excellent collection of photographs accompanies the text, bringing now - dead characters to life with realism.

There was only one campaign of WW II which was fought on American soil. It lasted fifteen months, and took an excessively high toll in American lives, ships, planes, and supplies.

Brian Garfield, who wrote "The Thousand-Mile War, World War II in Alaska, and the Aleutians", has produced the first account of this brutal campaign. In a preface, the author states that this history was not authorized by any governmental or private agency. However, his extensive note section and a good index indicate careful research. Many of the photographs included are from the United States Army, Navy, and Air Force.

General Lewis W. Walt, a "Marine's Marine", believes in pacification. This appears to be an odd contradiction, yet the general writes from tough experience in Vietnam, in terms of battle and of the sad humans affected by it. His "Strange War, Strange Strategy" portrays a deep feeling for the culture of the Vietnamese people. Former President Lyndon B. Johnson wrote the forward to this volume.

Unconventional, even chatty is "An Eye For the Dragon: Southeast Asia Observed: 1945-1970" by Dennis Bloodworth, who wrote "Chinese Looking Glass". He describes the vast area of southeast Asia as "prickly, strange, smelly and beautiful, revolting, enchanting, an offense and an addiction". Ignorance of the East and the West for each other appears to be insurmountable. Yet in this delightful essay on the lands which stretch from China to India, Mr. Toland conveys the peculiar idiom that is peculiar to them. Superstition, smuggling, astrology, death, and piracy are some of the topics through which he makes his point. When drawing a dragon, Chinese artists add the eye last, to bring their picture to life. This book accomplishes that very end. It puts the eye in the dragon.

"Lighter Than A Feather" by David Westheimer is a novel of the invasion of Japan in 1945. It ponders the question of whether Japan should have surrendered. Nelle Francis, who reviewed this book concluded that it is a resume of the many books dealing with that period, in narrative form.

Walkaway Kills Self

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Tired of running, an escapee from the Ohio Penitentiary slashed his arm and bled to death in a small room he had rented here.

"Please notify the warden that he can quit hunting me," wrote Richard E. Porter, 41, in a note found in the room Wednesday, when Porter's body was discovered.

Birmingham police said officials at the prison in Columbus had confirmed that Porter, serving time for armed robbery and possession of burglary tools, walked away last August.

Porter's home town was not known, police said, but his personal belongings are being sent to Highland Heights, Ky., and his nearest relative reportedly lives in Newport, Ky.

Jaeger Machine Co. Shows Earnings Loss

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Jaeger Machine Co. reported third quarter sales of $3,188,621, an increase over sales of $3,091,715 for the same period in 1970.

But the company showed a loss for the period of $74,795, which President J. M. Conroy attributed to severe price competition in an erratic market, expenses in connection with a proposed merger and costs incurred for engineering projects.

Meet The Vikings

Tony Sayre (30) and Boyd Palsgrove (43) are sophomore members of the Teays Valley High School football team. Sayre is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hawley, Route 2, Ashville, and Palsgrove is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Frantz, Route 2, Canal Winchester.

Tigers Tangle With Falcons

Circleville will be out to break a two-game losing streak Friday night when the Tigers travel to Franklin Heights to meet the Falcons.

Despite a 1-4-1 record the Falcons are not a bad ball club. Most of their losses have been by narrow margins and no one has really been able to run them off the field.

They will be coming into the game off a 12-12 tie with Hamilton Township and would like nothing better than to upend the Tigers.

Franklin Heights operates from a multiple offense with a balanced running and passing game.

They have good size and some speed which Circleville will have to contain.

On defense the Falcons will utilize both a 6-1 and Oklahoma to control the opposition. They give up points grudgingly and like to hit.

Circleville has come up with some injuries this week but hopes to have the boys ready by Friday. Gary Mogan suffered a knee injury and it is doubtful if he will see action against the Falcons.

Rich Speakman has a bad shoulder and Dave Pontious hurt his knee but both should be ready to go Friday.

Offensively Circleville will have Don Valentine at the tight end and Dave Webb at split end.

The tackles will be Mark Davey and Greg Williams with Kenny Temple and Stu Moore at the guards.

CRAIG Allison will handle the ball snapping duties.

Defensively the Tigers will use Tom Frericks and Paul England at the ends.

Greg Williams and Doug Spangler will be the tackles with Davey at the middle guard post.

Mike Hamrick and Valentine will be the linebackers with Jeff Harr, Chelkowski, Webb and Truex making up the secondary.

Sparkling Lee Trevino To Donate Prize If He Wins

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Lee Trevino had addressed the ball and was ready to start his backswing when the click of a camera—which wasn't supposed to be there—disturbed his concentration.

He backed off, walked around muttering to himself and again addressed the ball.

"Click," went the camera again.

Again Trevino backed off, obviously angry.

"Lady," he said to the women with the camera, "I'll pose for you all you like when I get through, but please don't do that when I'm playing."

And he walked around muttering some more, then got off the shot.

He went immediately to the highly embarrassed woman, grabbed her program to autograph it, bussed her on the cheek, posed for a picture and then headed down the fairway. Behind him he left a fan for life.

It was a small action, a tiny incident, but just part of the way Trevino has quickly established himself as one of the most popular players pro golf has ever known.

Trevino, the top-heavy favorite for the title when he set out in the first round of the Mexican National Open today, presents a grinning face, non-stop chatter and a happy-go-lucky attitude to the world. But he has a dead serious approach to the game and his responsibilities to it.

The 31-year-old came from a poverty background to become the game's greatest single-season money-winner, a pinnacle he passed last week when he pushed his earnings for the year to $227,243.

"I want to put something back in it, to use some of the help it has given me to help other people."

So saying, he promised to donate any prize money he wins in this tournament "to the Mexican National Orphanage. I don't know the father's name or just where the orphanage is, but I promised him I'd donate anything I win to the orphanage."

Bill Nelsen's Arm Key To Browns Win

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The key to the Cleveland Browns' game Sunday at Pittsburgh may be quarterback Bill Nelsen's arm, which has not been very effective in the last two games.

The Steelers fell 27-17 to the Browns in Cleveland Oct. 10 as Nelsen completed 18 of 27 passes with only one intercepted.

Eight of the completions were to tight end Milt Morin for 126 yards and nine were to backs Bo Scott and Leroy Kelly for 80 yards.

Recent opponents of the Browns have been successful in stopping the offense.

Warren Harding Loses Top Spot In Computer Ratings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Despite an 8-7 triumph over Massillon last week, Warren Harding lost its lead in its own Class AAA region in the weekly Ohio High School Athletic Association computerized high school football ratings.

Warren Harding, No. 1 in The Associated Press state rankings, slipped to third place behind Parma Senior and Lakewood St. Edward in Region 1.

Staubenville Catholic, the AP's Class AA state leader, whipped Louisville Aquinas 40-0, but fell to second behind Ironton in Region 7.

Marion Pleasant, which heads the state Class A poll, held on to its lead in Region 10.

Other Class AAA regional leaders this week were Upper Arlington, Massillon, moving to the top spot ahead of Akron Garfield in Region 3 despite its setback, and Cincinnati Moeller.

Joining Ironton as Class AA regional pacesetters were Cleveland Holy Name, Oregon Stritch and Springfield Shawnee.

Other regional leaders in Class A were Lorain Catholic, Crooksville and Middletown Fenwick.

The top ten in each region based on a formula of toughness of a team's schedule and those of its opponents.

Warren Harding Loses Top Spot In Computer Ratings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Despite an 8-7 triumph over Massillon last week, Warren Harding lost its lead in its own Class AAA region in the weekly Ohio High School Athletic Association computerized high school football ratings.

Warren Harding, No. 1 in The Associated Press state rankings, slipped to third place behind Parma Senior and Lakewood St. Edward in Region 1.

Staubenville Catholic, the AP's Class AA state leader, whipped Louisville Aquinas 40-0, but fell to second behind Ironton in Region 7.

Marion Pleasant, which heads the state Class A poll, held on to its lead in Region 10.

Other Class AAA regional leaders this week were Upper Arlington, Massillon, moving to the top spot ahead of Akron Garfield in Region 3 despite its setback, and Cincinnati Moeller.

McNeese State Becomes 1st In College Football Poll

By The Associated Press
McNeese State, winner of all seven games this season, has vaulted into first place in this division football poll.

The cowboys from Lake Charles, La., second a week ago, received 11 of 18 first-place votes and 324 points today in balloting by a panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

While the Cowboys, who finished with a 5-6 record last year, were registering their seventh triumph of this season, a 17-7 decision over Troy (Ala.) State last Saturday, Delaware, last week's top-ranked team, was upset by Temple 32-27 for its first setback in seven games.

The defeat dropped the Blue Hens into third place. They collected one first-place nomination and 225 points.

Eastern Michigan, 6-0-1, garnered two first-place ballots and 288 points, and climbed from fourth to second.

North Dakota, named No. 1 by three voters, advanced one place, going from fifth to fourth.

Louisiana Tech and Western Kentucky, each 6-1, jumped three places apiece, being named fifth and sixth, respectively.

Tennessee State, also 6-1, held seventh. Akron, upended by Central Michigan 10-7 for its first loss in seven games, plunged from third to eighth.

North Dakota State, beaten by South Dakota State 20-13, fell from sixth to ninth, and Boise State was placed tenth.

The top ten teams in the Associated Press College Division football poll with season records and total points on a 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8 basis:

1. McNeese St. 7-0 324
2. Eat. Mich. 6-0-1 289
3. Dela. 6-1 225
4. No. Dak. 6-2 213
5. La. Tech. 6-1 167
6. West. Ky. 6-1 164
7. Tenn. St. 6-1 156
8. Akron 6-1 150
9. N.D. St. 6-2 73
10. Boise St. 7-1 54

Erving, the lithe 6-foot-6 forward from the University of Massachusetts, paced Virginia with 29 points against Dallas.

"When he gains consistency on defense, he will be one of the super forwards in basketball," said Chaps' Coach Tom Nissalke. "Few forwards can move like he does."

Neil Johnson contributed 36 points for the Squires, while Charlie Scott, the league's leading scorer, added 25. Steve Jones topped Dallas with 28 points followed by Rich Jones with 25.

Bill Nelsen's Arm Key To Browns Win

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The key to the Cleveland Browns' game Sunday at Pittsburgh may be quarterback Bill Nelsen's arm, which has not been very effective in the last two games.

The Steelers fell 27-17 to the Browns in Cleveland Oct. 10 as Nelsen completed 18 of 27 passes with only one intercepted.

Eight of the completions were to tight end Milt Morin for 126 yards and nine were to backs Bo Scott and Leroy Kelly for 80 yards.

Recent opponents of the Browns have been successful in stopping the offense.

Junior Tigers Blank Rangers

Coach Gary Holby's Junior High Tigers concluded a very successful season on a victorious note with a 16-0 win over Hamilton Township Wednesday night.

Circleville's little Tigers scored on the first play of the fourth quarter when quarterback John Payne bootlegged two yards around right end. The Tiger defense provided the next two points when Jim Cordle and Tim Hartinger tackled the Hamilton quarterback in the end zone for a safety.

The offense scored the last touchdown when Payne and Frank Merrill collaborated on a 60 yard pass and run play. Jim Cordle tallied the extra points on an end sweep.

The Tiger defense, which shut out its opponent five out of six times this year, permitted the Rangers only one first down. Tom Strawser, Tiger tackle, played a great game with twenty tackles.

Circleville's final record is 3-1-2.

New Orleans Gets 4 Cleveland Games

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Indians have announced they will play four games this spring in New Orleans, the city that has been trying to lure the club into playing about 30 regular season games a year there, beginning in 1974.

The Indians announced Wednesday that they will play the Chicago Cubs in a three-game series March 31-April 2 and Dallas-Fort Worth April 3 in New Orleans.

Catholic Football Contenders Clash

WHEELING, W. Va. (AP) — The two contenders for the state Catholic high school football championship playoff will be decided Saturday night after a game between Weirton Madonna and Bishop Carroll of Pennsylvania.

The Rev. Robert Wanstreet, executive-secretary of the league, said Wednesday night that Madonna (7-2) is in a rating race with Clarksburg Notre Dame (7-2) and McMechen Bishop Donahue (7-1) for the two spots in the playoff.
